

Congratulations! You passed!

Next Item

1 / 1
point

1.

A properly formatted form element will always include an action attribute.

True

False

Correct

1 / 1
point

2.

Web crawlers follow anchor tags <a href=".... and may even fill in forms with a method of GET, but will never submit a form with a method= attribute of [_____].

POST

Correct Response

1 / 1
point

3.

Within PHP the [_____] array merges $_GET and $_POST data.

Correct Response1 / 1
point

4.

It is good practice for a web application to change data on a GET request.

True

False

Correct1 / 1
point

5.

The [____] attribute of an text input field will set a default value for the field.

Correct Response1 / 1
point

6.

The function htmlentities will transform an ampersand character (&) into

Correct Response

7.

The input type [____] will display your form input as dots.

password

Correct Response

1 / 1
point

8.

To connect the behavior of multiple radio buttons (e.g. to make sure that only one is "on" at the same time), make sure to give each radio button the same [____] attribute.

name

Correct Response

1 / 1
point

9.

To set a checkbox as checked by default, use the [____] attribute.

checked

Correct Response

1 / 1
point

10.

To set a default option in a drop-down list, use the [____] attribute.

Correct Response

1 / 1
point

11.
All browsers treat unknown input types as type= [] "

text

Correct Response

1 / 1
point

12.
In HTML5, the email input type doesn't validate the value until you press

submit

Correct Response

1 / 1
point

13.
Post data is appended to the URL.

☐ True

☒ False

Correct

14.

In a PHP script, it is generally a good idea to process any incoming POST data before you produce page output.

True

Correct

False

1 / 1
point

15.

"View Page Source" allows you to see the HTML code.

True

Correct

False

1 / 1
point

16.

"View Page Source" allows you to see the PHP code.

True

False

Correct1 / 1
point

Forms

17. "View Page Source" allows you to see the output of the PHP code.
Practice Quiz, 17 questions

17/17 points (100%)

True

Correct

False